Lynch Is Chosen by Democrats

By HENRY LEADER
Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP)—Rep. Walter A. Lynch of the Bronx, a champion of the Fair Deal, won the Democratic nomination for governor on the first ballot today.

The convention unanimously nominated U. S. Senator Herbert H. Lehman for a full six-year term.

Lynch defeated Oscar Ewing, federal security administrator and a fellow resident of the Bronx, 784 to 67. The only other candidate presented to the convention delegates, former State Supreme Court Justice Walter A. Bliss of Schoharie, received six votes.

Ewing was advanced for the nomination by Daniel P. O'Connell's Albany county delegation, whose 30 members voted solidly for Ewing. The security administrator, leading advocate of compulsory national health insurance, received the other 37 votes from Columbia, Essex, Fulton, Hamilton, Greene, Herkimer, Orange, Orleans, Saratoga, Ulster and Washington county delegates.

Bliss drew his votes from Schoharie and Delaware county delegates.

The nomination of Lynch, after completion of the roll call, was made unanimous on motion of Rep. William T. Byrne of Albany county, who had placed the name of Ewing before convention supporters of Bliss concurred.

The ultimate choice of Lynch, 56-year-old Irish Catholic lawyer, was followed by a five-minute demonstration in his behalf. But Albany's delegation, and several other upstate delegations, remained stolidly in their seats. It was their way of protesting.

Democrats Vote Coming Platform

Vast Social Reforms Are Proposed, Truman Fair Deal Backed

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP)—The Democratic state convention offered voters today a platform that pledged vast social reforms and plugged for President's Truman's Fair Deal program.

The platform adopted the platform last night.

Loaded with what the Democrats hope will be effective ammunition to oppose Governor Dewey's bid for re-election, the program demands repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law, a $1-an-hour minimum wage law in the state and a new drive against racial discrimination.

At the same time, the platform charges Dewey's administration with "tripling the cost of state government."

The Democrats demanded full development of hydro-electric facilities on the Niagara and St. Lawrence rivers "for public use and benefit."

Mayor Donald W. Kramer of Binghamton, who headed the committee that drew the platform, was interrupted frequently by applause as he read it to the packed convention hall.

Delegates roared their approval as he charged that the Dewey administration had "consistently confused the people of our state on matters relating to the operation of state finances."

The Democrats said they would demand an "impartial accounting of the true conditions" of the state's finances "as soon as the Democratic administration is installed in Albany."

The platform called the Korean crisis "the greatest danger we have ever faced," and called for "abandonment of partisanship in the mobilization of the national effort."

The platform recommended emergency legislation to authorize the President to take into custody in "times of critical and immediate emergency" suspected saboteurs and spies, including "willful and proved members of the Communist party."

Plane Incident Seen as Indication Talk Is Planned

Soviet Still Eager to Avoid Conflict With U. S., Determination Seen as Our Move

Washington, Sept. 7 (AP)—Russia's handling of the Korean plane incident was regarded by diplomats here today as evidence that the Soviet still wants to confine its conflict with the United States to diplomatic clashes.

That is the aim, too, of the American government in its relations with the Soviet-Communist bloc. In addition the United States has displayed in the present incident a determination not to deal directly with Moscow on a matter which it contends involves the United Nations.

The point with respect to Russian policy is important because American authorities are convinced that the incidents of this kind will occur in the future as, in fact, they have occurred in the past.

Two American aircraft were shot down by Yugoslavia in 1948 when that country was still friendly to the Soviet. A United States naval plane was destroyed over the Baltic sea last April, allegedly by Soviet fighters. Only last month Red China charged that American aircraft had strafed an air strip in Manchuria, and the United States conceded in the U.N. that was "a possibility."

Do Not Use Controls

Informed officials say incidents of this kind are frequently the result of the fact that airplanes do not follow the same rules of control as other means of travel or attack in war. Boundary lines are more often than not obscure from the air. One vessel may look very much like another. Commanders may feel that an aircraft may fly an intelligence mission over alien territory and get back without being detected or caught.

Even when the causes of the affair are initially innocent, an incident is quickly caught up in the atmosphere of hatred and suspicion which now dominates relations between the Communist countries and the rest of the world.

The usual reaction of governments in such cases is to rely upon diplomacy to handle complaints and protests until they are ready for a showdown. Then an incident may become a "shot heard around the world." For that reason any outburst or violence between nations is always potentially dangerous until the reaction of the responsible governments becomes known.

Aircraft Unarmed

In their first official reaction to the Korean plane incident, the Russians alleged yesterday that their aircraft shot down off Korea was unarmed and was many miles from the border.

School Registration One Pupil Under '49

One pupil who might not have been ready or able to go to school today missed the opportunity to make this year's total registration exactly even with that of 1949.

Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools, announced the total in all schools to date at 4,733. Last year on the third day 4,734 had registered.

The total registration at elementary schools was 2,141, at the Myron J. Michael School, 673 and at the high school 1,919.

Dewey Nominates Lt. Governor for Senate at GOP Parley

By HARRY O'DONNELL
Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey, undaunted by two defeats for the presidency today was renominated for a third term as governor of New York.

Dewey, who only last Monday reversed his decision to retire, was nominated by acclamation by shrieking delegates to the Republican state convention.

In a dramatic move, New York's 74-year-old Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley placed Dewey's name in nomination.

Dewey had personally nominated Hanley for the U. S. Senate, a few minutes earlier.

Hanley was certain of being nominated for governor himself until he yielded to draft-Dewey pressure last Saturday. He withdrew his candidacy and urged Dewey to run again in view of the international crisis.

The lieutenant governor was nominated for the Senate by acclamation.

He wept openly as the convention cheered him wildly.

Dewey's opponent will be a relatively unknown Democratic congressman from the Bronx, Rep. Walter A. Lynch.

Hanley will run against Senator Herbert H. Lehman, one of the Democratic party's greatest vote-getters in the Empire State.

Lynch and Lehman were nominated today by the Democratic convention at Rochester.

The G.O.P. delegates staged riotous convention hall demonstrations when Hanley's and Dewey's names were placed in nomination.

Presents Dewey's Name

Hanley, in presenting Dewey's name to the convention, said that it was "very important to the state of New York in this time of crisis" that it be led by an outstanding man.

Touching briefly on his decision not to run for governor, Hanley said "it was the only thing a patriotic American and a loyal Republican could do" to make it possible for Dewey to seek another term.

Hanley said he "was happy to do it and proud to nominate 'one of the greatest individuals I ever have known'—Thomas E. Dewey."

In nominating Hanley, Dewey briefly reviewed the lieutenant governor's long service to the state and country and spoke warmly of Hanley's character.

"Everyone in the state knows and loves him," Dewey said.

After noisy convention hall demonstrations for Dewey and Hanley, the delegates moved to nominate the rest of the ticket.

Was Passenger in Avis Auto Involved in West Park Crash

Max Leventhal of 270 East 198th street, the Bronx, died at Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie at 7:31 p. m. Wednesday.

Leventhal was injured in an automobile accident on Route 9W at West Park, Monday evening and has been hospitalized since that time.

Joseph Avis of 152 St. James street, this city, driver of the automobile in which Leventhal was riding, was also injured and today is in apparently good condition at Vassar Hospital. Attendees reported he is resting "fairly comfortably." Avis is Leventhal's son-in-law.

Highland troopers said the accident occurred when the Avis automobile was struck by another vehicle after the other vehicle had a blowout. Joseph Bua, 45, of Brooklyn, driver of that automobile, has not been held by troopers.

An autopsy has been ordered to determine the cause of Leventhal's death this morning. If, after the autopsy, a Dutchess county medical examiner rules death was caused by the accident, Leventhal will become the 26th person to be killed by motor vehicle accidents in Ulster county since January 1.

Max Leventhal was a former resident of Kingston, living at 152 St. James street. From 1900 to 1920 he was affiliated with his brother, Hyman Leventhal, of 202 Washington avenue, in the fur business. He was about 70.

In addition to his brother, he is survived by a sister, Anna Leventhal of New York city; a son, David, of New York, and daughters Mrs. Ruth Ryppe of New York; Mrs. Sally Ryppe of Kingston, wife of attorney Joseph Avis who was injured in the accident; Mrs. Edna Kessler of Long Island, and Mrs. Meriam Lewis of Long Island. His children were all born and educated in Kingston.

Burial will be tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in Riverview Cemetery, New Jersey.

Truman to Veto McCarran's Bill

President Will Not Sign He Tells Conference at Capital

Washington, Sept. 7 (AP)—President Truman said today he won't sign the McCarran Communist registration bill if Congress sends it to him.

He told a news conference the bill, sponsored by Senator McCarran (D-Nev.), is the same as the Republican Mundt-Nixon bill, but revised by McCarran to make it a little worse.

The bill is now pending in the Senate. It aims to tighten up generally existing anti-subversive laws and would also require registration with the government by Communists and Communist front organizations.

The bill has strong support in the Senate. Republican Leader Wherry of Nebraska said today:

Russia Vetoes Ban on Aid To Red Korea in UN Session

Lake Success, Sept. 7 (AP)—Russia used her 44th veto in the United Nations Security Council last night to prevent a U. S.-sponsored ban on aid to the North Koreans. Defeat of the U. S. resolution will not affect U. N. action already underway in Korea.

Russia's Jacob A. Malik, voted down earlier yesterday in an attempt to have U. N. forces withdrawn from Korea, today will try to halt U. S. Air Force action in that country. His newest move also is doomed to failure.

Both Sides Suffer Big Casualties

North Korean Losses for Week Are Placed at 20,000; New Push Is Begun

Planes Hit Tanks

Reds Lose 65 Vehicles Under Pounding by Aircraft

Tokyo, Friday, Sept. 8 (AP)—Two pincers aimed at Taegu by 7,000 Red Koreans were beaten back Thursday by Allied troops. Severe fighting raged all along the 120-mile Korean battlefield. Some of it was fought by marines and doughboys in hand-to-hand combat with bayonets and clubbed rifles.

Both sides lost heavily. Communist casualties in the flaming southwestern sector alone were put at 20,000 men for the week out of their estimated force of 150,000 on the whole front.

A new North Korean drive on the U. S. 25th Infantry Division started with a terrific artillery barrage at dawn Thursday. The Americans there are defending the southernmost approach to the main main ABM supply base 35 miles east of the fighting front.

U. S. warplanes pounded Red tanks damaged or destroyed 65 in two days. Forty-eight were knocked out Thursday. The Reds moved 81 new Russian tanks into the line Wednesday.

A bitter and indecisive day-long battle for the last northern ridge before Pusan raged between U. S. First Cavalrymen and the Communists.

In Sight of City

The Reds were within sight of the city.

A.P. Correspondent Jack MacBeth, with the cavalry, reported the Americans stuck to their positions under heavy Red pressure.

Once the Americans had to turn their backs around to mow down Communist infiltrators.

One cavalry regiment slipped out at close range with the attack.

While this battle raged at the southern end of the peninsula "howling alley" other cavalry units beat off two dawn attacks to and four miles northeast of Taegu, 12 miles northwest of Taegu.

A.P. Correspondent P. M. Dyer reported the Allies rolled back the Communist force that had smashed through South Korea lines and posed a sharp new threat to Taegu.

South Korean forces were pushing eastward from Yongcheon, a key highway junction 20 miles east of Taegu, which the North Koreans held last Friday Wednesday.

Drive 31 Miles

Elements of the U. S. 24th Division drove 31 miles north of Kyongju, another main highway point 18 miles southwest of Taegu, captured Pohang, part on the Son of Japan coast.

Americans control the battlefield six miles south of Pohang.

The rains were slow and bloody. In the southwestern fighting the 25th Division has inflicted more than 13,000 casualties on the Reds in seven days.

Immediately north of that battle, contested ground U. S. marines and 2nd Division infantrymen pushed back remnants of four Red divisions across the Nakdong river west of Yongsan. Yongsan is 32 miles south of Taegu.

The fight there was grim and bloody. Hand to hand combat raged.

Charge With Bayonets

The marines and doughboys charged with bayonets and swung.

Motorists Are Asked To Examine Licenses

The Ulster County Motor Vehicle Bureau, 34 Main street, this city, today asked area motorists to examine their operator licenses to see whether the expiration is the end of this month.

Diesel Voice Changes

Chicago (AP)—The voice of Santa Fe locomotive No. 29 has changed. The switch was made on the diesel locomotive in an experiment. The railroad explains it this way: "In the congested eastern areas of the country, some complaints have been lodged that the regular diesel horn is too harsh and startling. The new voice is a five-chime Nathan whistle which is basically a musical instrument. When in use, the simultaneous sounding of the various single tones produces a musical chord or chime effect."

Frank Marx reported at a special meeting of the Town Board last week the costs of digging and installing a sewer line on the New Faltz road from upper Grand street to the west, a distance of some 1,700 feet would be: eight manholes, $120; sewer pipe, $1,050; excavation, $2,000, or $2,500 if rock is found. He added that there would be some 15 petitioners who would be notified as to the expense. At this time it was voted to transfer $4,444.13 from the sewer sinking fund to the sewer bonds of $6,000 and interest of $1,105. This wipes out the sewer sinking fund and forthcoming bonds and interest will have to be paid from some other source.

Bard College Appoints New Admissions Heads

Annandale-on-Hudson, Sept. 7.—The appointment of Richard M. Gummere, Jr., of Media, Pa., as director of admissions of Bard College, and of Marilyn J. Mullen of Batavia, as assistant director of admissions has been announced by President James H. Case, Jr.

Gummere has been teaching this past year at the Friends School in Media, Pa. He attended William Penn Charter School, Philadelphia, Pa., and graduated from Harvard University in 1934. He has been a teacher of Latin at Milton Academy, Milton, Mass., and at Phillips Andover Academy, Andover, Mass. He has also taught English at Swarthmore College. Since 1944 he has been a teacher at Media Friends School with the exception of one year when he was on the staff of the Alexander Foundation School, also in Media.

Gummere comes from a family that has long been prominent in education. His father, Dr. Richard Mott Gummere, is the chairman of the committee on admissions of Harvard University. Miss Mullen attended Batavia High School. After one year at Albany State College for Teachers she went to Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, from which she graduated in 1948. This year she received her master's degree from Mills College, Oakland, Calif., where she majored in psychology, counseling and guidance.

Nurse Enrollment Urged
All licensed practical nurses of Ulster county are urged to enroll and take the refresher course given at the Benedictine Hospital by Sister Mary Charles, starting September 14, at 8 p. m. Enrollment as early as possible is asked.

Grange News

Membership plan begun last year and closing, as far as records are concerned, on June 30 of this year, bore considerable fruit and probably will result in a substantial net gain in Grange members throughout the 897 Granges in the state. Fifty-three Granges won the $10 awards for making a net gain of 10 members each. The subordinate which won the first place state award of $100 will be announced at the State Grange Sessions in Elmira next month, so we cannot give it to you now.

The membership plan, first put into effect by the executive committee last year, indicates the need for more active membership committees in each Grange. While this would seem obvious to most, it is quite true that many Granges do not even have one. While membership is by invitation and subject to passing the ballot box, each Grange should be alert to the desirable folks who would make good Grangers, and make sure that a vigorous, growing membership list is maintained.

State session change in schedule this year has the Sixth Degree being conferred on Tuesday evening, October 31, the first day of the sessions. Unlike other years, there will be no recess before the degree, but there will be one the next day. This will give the committees an opportunity to hear reports prior to going to work on resolutions. This seems to be a sensible move for everyone's convenience. We hope you are planning to attend this year. Elmira is an attractive convention city, and state sessions are always pleasant occasions to meet your friends from all over the state.

Hurley Unit

A regular meeting of Hurley Grange, 963, will be held Thursday at the Hurley Church basement at 8:30 p. m. All members are requested to attend as election of officers will take place. Movies will be shown and refreshments served.

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

In times of serious inflation dangers such as the present people are prone to think of ways to hedge against the drop in the value of the currency—in our case, the dollar.

But it is not as simple as it sounds.

By way of illustrating the difficulties note the conflicting trends of stock prices and wholesale commodity prices over the past five years.

One would suppose, if he had not noticed, that both commodity and stock prices would tend to run along together in their trends. It inflation seems probable—as it has for years—then one might expect both stocks and commodities to advance in price.

Yet, when you look back at the record, you see that at about the time, in 1946, when wholesale commodity prices started their fast upward climb stock prices were registering their "1946 peaks"—after which, you recall, the stock market plunged downward. While commodities continued to advance, during 1947 and into the fall of 1948, stock prices ran up and down without any major trend discernible.

Inasmuch as commodities have already started a new advance, since Korea, one ruminates naturally over the question of whether stocks will again turn downward, in contrast to the upward trend of commodities.

There is some reason for this contradictory action of stock and commodity prices. An inflation of commodity and raw-material prices increases the costs of doing business, of course. Also, as we are now witnessing, inflation causes demands for increased wages. Moreover, as inflation sets in, brought about by war (as at present) taxes are sure to be raised. Taxes add additional costs. And so it goes.

The result seems to be that an inflation of the price level is not the bullish argument for stocks that many people suppose. Then, too, we know that a control bill has been passed. Whereas it is to be hoped that "controls" will limit the inflation, it also must be recognized that they will also prove (probably) a depressing influence on stock prices.

The economic situation is becoming embroiled and it is difficult to sort out the pieces and make a logical whole. Within the past week or two, for instance, we have witnessed two surprising announcements from one large industrial organization: Chrysler Motor Car Company. Almost simultaneously, Chrysler announced a whopping extra dividend on its stock and a totally unexpected wage boost of 10 cents an hour.

Both of these moves are inflationary, obviously, as they put more money into the pockets of both stockholders and workers. But what else lies behind these sudden decisions on the part of the directors?

One can only speculate, unless he has the private ear of the directors. From one angle, it suggests that the labor market in Detroit is getting so tight, that Chrysler had to raise General Motors' wage ante (of 5 cents) in order to hold workers and hire others. You see, this war-demand problem comes at a time when our economy is running full blast and not depressed as in 1940-1941. The labor force is employed. There is scarcity of capable auto workers today, not an over-supply. From the stockholder viewpoint,

Coffee Outlook Is Good

Washington, Sept. 7 (AP)—The outlook is for ample coffee supplies next year. An Agriculture Department official told a reporter yesterday the Brazilian harvest next May to September is expected to be considerably larger than the last two which were hit by bad weather. Brazil supplies about half of the coffee used in this country. In addition, he said, preliminary forecasts from four other major coffee producing countries—Colombia, El Salvador, Guatemala and Mexico—indicate the harvest starting next month will be larger than normal for those countries. They furnish about 40 per cent of the United States' supply.

WE'LL HAVE TO REBUILD NORMA

Military victory in Korea won't end our problems there. It will merely give us new ones, in the political and economic sphere. Even though triumph in the field may be many months away we ought to waste no time in sketching out plans to meet the coming problems.

A look at Korea's economic condition is enough to make clear the size of our future difficulties there. Korea is a land where 21,000,000 people normally live close to starvation. Poverty is the rule, even without war.

But note what two months of war have done: Hundreds of villages have been leveled by fire and shell. Hundreds of thousands of farmers have been driven from their fields. Industrial plants have been bombed and looted. Transportation has been smashed. Except in the American-held sectors almost every bridge south of the 38th parallel has been knocked out.

With winter coming on, every coal mine is in enemy hands. When the mines are recovered they will undoubtedly be found stripped of their machinery. Virtually no wood is available for fuel (or for housing). Koreans are fishermen as well as farmers—great numbers of their fishing boats have been sunk. Oil tanks, warehouses, dock facilities and many other installations are gone.

We are in Korea, to rescue the people from Soviet-inspired aggression. But reports indicate they nevertheless hold us responsible for the war damage and look to us to make it good when the conflict is over. This may sound ungrateful, but it's eminently practical.

Furthermore, there's precedent for such an attitude. At the end of World War II we put out more than $3 billion to rehabilitate the Philippines. Most of the damage had been done by U. S. forces in freeing the islands from Japanese control.

From Tokyo come signs we already are recognizing the magnitude of the Korean economic problems. E.C.A. officials plan to ship thousands of tons of cereals to Korea in the next few months. They're requesting preliminary surveys of immediate relief needs. Informed guesses are that $200 million will be needed to meet pressing needs between now and next July. About $7,500,000 has been set aside to provide for spring rice plantings.

Americans may feel like complaining—"Just another area for us to support. Aren't we doing enough for the world as it is?" Of course it's painful, this vast job of helping countries all over the world. But these are the burdens imposed by war and the threat of war.

Had there never been a World War II, the world would not have been so impoverished and prostrated as it has become in vast areas. Thus it would not be so ready a prey of communism. Anyone who has a realistic plan for averting these burdens undoubtedly would be welcomed in Washington's highest quarters. But in Korea as elsewhere there probably is none.

We can't save the Koreans from Soviet domination only to leave them a country in ruins. They must be given the substance out of which to build a future in freedom.

OVERTHROW OF STALIN

"Russians, overthrow Stalin!" This trumpet call is sounded by William O. Hart, Socialist candidate for governor of Wisconsin. It may be doubted if it will reach as far as Russia.

Doubtless a revolution in Russia would solve some problems, at least for the moment. The ruling hierarchy is so well entrenched, however, that a successful revolt is one of the world's least likely events. There is just one possibility. If the Russians decided that it had been ordered and by civilians long enough, there is the one organization which has the strength to overthrow Stalin and all his accomplices.

Americans need not hope for magic recovery from this unlikely event, however. They know that in both its general world objectives and its trouble-making tactics the Soviet regime is merely following the ancient course of Russian rulers.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THINKING OUT LOUD

I heard the president of Smith College, Dr. Benjamin Fletcher Wright, say that somehow this country has been involved in every European war since its existence. The reference was to emphasize our being internationally-minded. For instance, the Revolutionary War was related to a war between Great Britain and France, to which Spain and Holland were parties. This was an aftermath of the Seven Years War, which in this country was known as the French and Indian War.

However, after the revolution, these European wars barely affected our lives or our economies. Our population increased by immigration from Europe, where social, political and economic conditions drove the populace to despair. Surely, these vast numbers who came to our shores from every country on earth, but principally from Great Britain and Germany, would not have braved the terrors of the Atlantic and of unknown frontier life, were they not driven by necessity.

Thus, the United States was peopled by men and women who knew Europe and preferred our wilderness. Here in freedom, they built a society in which government was a device designed to perform only such duties as could not be done by the individual or by voluntary groups.

So entrenched was the concept that this country had to go its own way that in the annual message of President Fillmore (December 2, 1851), which was probably written by Daniel Webster, appears this paragraph which must sound queer to us in these days when the United Nations actually sits in New York and Jacob Malik denounces this country on its own soil:

"Friendly relations with all, but entangling alliances with none, has long been a maxim with us. Our true mission is not to propagate our opinions or impose upon other countries our form of government by artifice or force, but to teach by example and show by our success, moderation, and justice, the blessings of self-government and the advantages of free institutions. Let every people choose for itself, and make and alter its political institutions to suit its own condition and convenience. But while we avow and maintain this neutral policy ourselves, we are anxious to see the same forbearance on the part of other nations, whose forms of government are different from our own."

The great change occurred prior to World War II when this country moved into the leadership against Hitler's Germany. Perhaps it is well to fix the point (it is possible to fix it at several points) at the Atlantic Charter (August 14, 1941). This was almost four months before, by act of Congress, the United States entered the war.

Since then, the United States has assumed what is so often called world leadership, but what is, in reality, the obligation of maintaining and supporting specific countries in Western Europe, and also Korea, Turkey, Iran, Japan, China and part of Korea.

China was eliminated from this group of supported countries as a result of two conflicting ideas: One, that the cost of China would be so great as to make it impossible simultaneously and adequately to support Western Europe at all; and secondly, because of the machinations of the pro-Communist group in the State Department who had turned China into a political liability for these in power.

The economic effect of this program has been the increase in the public debt, the prolongation of Keynesian economies in our country, and now, war in Korea, with the necessity for the resumption of wartime controls and the conscription of manpower and of commodities for war purposes. It has also accelerated the inflation which has resulted in a reduction of the real value of currency.

Viewing the entire question of world leadership objectively, it is impossible not to ask whether 150,000,000 people, with limited resources, can assume such vast responsibilities without risking economic and social collapse.

Alternatives have been offered in various forms, such as a more effective United Nations union, now, world federation, the North Atlantic Federation, etc. While each of these proposals contains many supportable ideas, all of them must inevitably result in the reduction of the United States to control by Europe, either because of the larger population there or by majority rule among countries.

This is our problem and we need to think it out. Party politics and personal ambitions do not aid in thinking it out.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

OVERWEIGHT AND INSURANCE

Our life insurance companies for many years have been greatly concerned about overweight in their policyholders and in those wishing to obtain insurance. This is because records of thousands of policyholders over the years show that the dangers and disadvantages of overweight are real and not imaginary. Accordingly, the companies issue from time to time leaflets and booklets showing how overweight not only shortens the life span but interferes with the everyday health.

In the reducing diet leaflets there is always the advice to cut down on starches (sugar, potatoes, bread) and on fats (butter, cream, fat meats). As every pound of fat can hold three pounds of water, overweight is now advised to cut down on all liquids by 25 to 50 per cent. What is not mentioned in many reducing diets is the importance of cutting down on table salt and on foods, despite the fact that it is generally known that salt holds much water in the tissues (70 times its own weight).

In Nordic Medicine, Stockholm, Dr. F. Hentzelmann reports his study of the effect of treatment with diets low in salt and with intake up to 3 liters (more than three quarts) daily in 30 patients with pronounced heart insufficiency or weakness and extensive swelling (deposits of water) of the tissues. This will be a surprise treatment to many physicians as fluids are usually greatly reduced in all cases of failing heart.

In most cases there was progressive loss of weight and the more abundant intake of fluids caused neither urinary nor outward signs of any aggravation of the heart symptoms. Dr. Hentzelmann therefore concludes that a diet containing less than a half teaspoon of table salt can be of great value in the treatment of uncompensated (failing) heart disorders. By the use of a diet low in table salt, it is unnecessary to cut down so much on water and other liquids, the patient being allowed in some cases to take 2 to 3 quarts of liquids daily with benefit to all organs of the body. Salt and liquids are needed by the body tissues every day but a little less salt will make the work of the heart lighter and also the weight of the body.

What a Startling Similarity

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—It's supposed to be a White House secret, but the President's personal physician, Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, has been giving the Chief Executive a course in psychotherapy.

The treatment takes the form of regular talks between the President and General Graham, in which Mr. Truman unburdens himself about the aggravations that go with the job of being President.

In these sessions, Truman pours out his innermost secrets to his doctor—such things as the worry he had over dropping the atomic bomb, his worry over his dealings with Stalin, over his decision to send American boys to fight in Korea, Graham analyzes the President's concern, and helps to relieve the tremendous strain under which every President labors.

Incidentally, General Graham keeps a verbatim record of these conversations which some day should be among the most important readings in history.

At the dinner he gave UN. colleagues after retiring as president of the Security Council, Russia's Jacob Malik was jokingly reminded of his walkout from the council last January.

"Was it just a coincidence that you came back when the council was preparing to seat the Chinese Nationalists?" inquired one of his guests.

Malik insisted that this wasn't the case, but that the "rules of procedure" called for him to assume the presidency of the council during the month of August.

"I came back to observe the rules," he said seriously.

"Well, in that case, you will have to find a new reason for staying on here, since your term as president has now expired," persisted the guest.

"Oh, that isn't difficult," grinned the Soviet official. "When we want to do something, we can always find a reason."

Bradley Chafes

Gen. Omar Bradley isn't advertising it, but he is so fed up with Secretary of Defense Johnson's roughshod attempts to dedicate strategy, plus General MacArthur's indifference to orders from Washington, that he would like to get out as chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

"You are a lucky man," he remarked.

cently confided to a general who was given a command outside the Pentagon. "I'd give my right arm to be leading troops again. I just don't know how much longer I can stand this."

New Army Training

The army will get the bulk of the three million men President Truman wants drafted, and will set up a production-line training program to make soldiers out of them. However, the training won't be the same as that in the last war.

It may come as a shock to hard-bitten sergeants, but the army will try to be more diplomatic. Under the army's G-3 training section, trainees are to be treated as individuals, not entities, and the new approach will be to use more reason and less force.

Briefly, here is what the new draftees can expect as they pour into army camps this month: They will get 14 weeks' active training with two weeks' leave for processing and red tape. The first six weeks will be basic indoctrination, then specialized training for eight weeks.

Roughly 70 per cent will be given specialized combat training, such as infantry, field artillery, and tanks. The remaining 30 per cent will be trained for service units, such as the engineers, quartermaster corps and signal corps.

The cream of the crop will be sent on to advanced schools for additional technical training; the rest will be assigned to units ready to go into action as needed.

The chances of getting officer training are slim. The army is already top-heavy with brass, but will need some junior-grade officers. So far, however, the army has plans for only one officer candidate school—at Fort Riley, Kansas.

Johnson's Politics

Secretary of Defense Johnson, allegedly a staunch Democrat, uses a staunch Republican to handle "political matters."

This came out the other day when a prominent midwestern businessman called upon Johnson.

"The administration has lost the confidence of the people out where I come from," declared the midwesterner.

"Why is that?" asked Johnson.

"They didn't like this false economy program you had before the Korean War," the businessman retorted bluntly. Then, as an afterthought, he added: Of course, they don't blame you as much as the administration."

"That is very interesting," mused Johnson politely. "I would like you to tell that to my assistant secretary who handles our political matters."

Then Johnson brought in Assistant Secretary of Defense Paul Griffith, a diehard Republican.

Labor Notes

William Green will be re-elected without opposition to his 27th term as president of the American Federation of Labor when the A.F.L. opens its annual convention in Houston Sept. 18.

For the first time in history, a whole day of the convention will be devoted to politics, including a fund-raising drive for the federation's badly bent League for Political Education, organized to defeat congressional bills favoring the Taft-Hartley Act and against Fair Deal legislation. . . . A.F.L. leaders are greatly concerned about rank-and-file indifference to the league, which has received less than 10 per cent of the $2 per capita voluntary contributions set for all A.F.L. members. . . . Convention spokesmen will bluntly warn members that they will have to dig down for the funds to elect labor's friends and defeat its foes in November.

Few Friends Re Orient

U.N. Ambassador Warren Austin has warned the White House that the majority of members of the U.N. Security Council are opposed to U.N. forces going beyond the 38th parallel in Korea.

Even more important, Austin has informed Washington that the U.N. would definitely oppose further American intervention in China. Austin went so far as to state privately that the United States would run into heavy opposition at the U.N. General Assembly to MacArthur's policy of support for Chiang Kai-shek.

Only the Philippines, Austin reported, favor Chiang, and virtually every other Pacific nation is doing business with or has recognized Mao Tse-tung's Communist regime.

As a result, Secretary Acheson will review American far eastern policy with British Foreign Minister Bevin in about one week.

Warm Words in London: Ambassador Douglas has warned the British to stop shipping machine tools to the Russians—or else.

Douglas called secretly at the foreign office before flying to Washington and told Hector MacNeil that Britain must cancel its contract with Moscow for a tremendous wave of anti-British feeling in the United States. . . . To soften the blow, he said the U. S. was prepared to give Britain more Marshall Plan dollars to buy timber and wheat which the British have been getting from Russia in exchange for the machine tools.

Truman Explanation of Marine Attack Nearly as Clumsy as His First

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 7.—President Truman's attempt to explain away by a second letter his attack on the Marine Corps is almost as clumsy as his first communication. He now has gone from the frying pan into the fire. Originally he insulted the Marine Corps by accusing it of maintaining "a propaganda machine almost equal to Stalin's." Now he accuses, in effect, both the Republicans and Democrats of the House Armed Services Committee—thirty-one of them—as being among those "who may not be aware of the best interests of our defense establishment as a whole."

For these 31 members have unanimously approved a resolution that the Marine Corps be represented on the U. S. joint chiefs of staff. They voted by roll call on the proposal. Chairman Vinson has announced his intention to press legislation to bring this about.

The President's effort to placate the Marine Corps was hurried. He drew a distinction between the Marine Corps and its friends outside the service. Who are the Marines who fought for their country and are now accused of maintaining "a propaganda machine almost equal to Stalin's?" The President should name them and not generalize about anonymous propagandists of the Stalin variety.

The records will show that the publicity from Marine veteran organizations is negligible in quantity. If anyone wants to look at propaganda let him examine the thousands and thousands of words going out from the Defense Department these days to defend Secretary John.

In the Defense Department about 2,500 officers are engaged in information or public-relations duties. There are only 75 of these attached to the Marine Corps, the remainder being officers of the army, navy and air force.

Mr. Truman's awkward explanation as to what he meant by condemning the Marine Corps throughout his administration to remain as "the navy's police force" is not convincing. The explicit definition he now gives of the law covering the Marine Corps functions is far broader than could possibly have been derived from any such phrase as "the navy's police force."

The words "police force" are well known at the Pentagon building. They are well known to the House Armed Services Committee, for that is exactly the status which certain officers of the general staff of the army were accused of trying to give to the Marine Corps. And it is the Marine Corps budget so that its combat effectiveness would be seriously curtailed. The whole tangled story is a matter of public record. The probabilities are that Mr. Truman has heard the same phrase often from the lips of prejudiced observers in uniform who surround him that he used it quite naturally to express his determination that the Marine Corps would not be expanded as has been urged by Chairman Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee.

Mr. President did write in his second letter that he sincerely regretted the whole affair but he has not made a forthright acknowledgment of error. This letter is in the nature of a quibble over the meaning of the words he had used before.

Actually the proposal for representation on the joint chiefs is not new and never has been urged by the Marine Corps itself. General Cates, commandant, testifying last year before Congress, said he wanted only this: "To make sure that the joint chiefs of staff would allow the Marine Corps a voice whenever amphibious warfare is under consideration and the Marines were affected. This is a simple request and should be established as a custom. It does not need legislation. The President could order it done with the stroke of a pen. If he did this, much of the feeling that he is against the Marine Corps would vanish."

Unhappily, the President has reopened the whole unification controversy at a time when most people here were beginning to feel that differences were being ironed out and harmony was being developed. Now the suspicion will be fostered that it was the President who was back of the anti-Marine behavior of the joint chiefs of staff and the secretary of defense last year. The suspicion will not be allayed until the President and the Joint Chiefs of Staff Committee meet from their respective offices and discuss the matter.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Sept. 6.—On a visit to Vermont, I bought a booklet by Joe H. Fountain, described as the only newspaperman who was present in the old Coolidge home at Plymouth at 2:47 in the morning of Aug. 3, 1933, when Calvin Coolidge put his hand on the old family Bible, took the oath of office from his father and became thirtieth president of the United States. Mr. Fountain was editor of the Springfield, Vermont, Reporter, and a string man for the Boston office of the Associated Press. I had ever heard of his clean-up I had forgotten about it.

I was in Rutland, starting my vacation at the time, and was tempted to go up the mountain for the experience but laid off because I was with the United Press and Paul Mallon, then a bustling young U.P. reporter who had died only a few weeks ago, had picked me up from New York to do the piece. Paul might have thought I was trying to hang onto the act. At any rate, I held still and Paul went up to Plymouth and a letter to me by mail told me how it went. Mr. Fountain told in with Congressman Porter B. Dale, an old-style fundamental Republican who had been elected to the Senate, and that I promised to push on to Plymouth on the off-chance that Dale could persuade Mr. Coolidge to take the oath from his father there and then.

On the way up the Major League reporters on the assignment passed by, coming down and told Fountain he might as well follow them back. Mr. Coolidge had given them a statement and gone to bed. He would start back to Washington in the morning and take the oath there.

However, Dale said repeatedly, "This country is without a President and the vote is out at Plymouth where Fountain was surprised to find the old Lodge playing in Ciley's store and in the Coolidge home down the road a piece. Congressman Dale got Mr. Coolidge aside in the sitting-room and earnestly luzzed him. Mr. Coolidge was there and presently old Colonel John C. Coolidge walked in. He was a native Calis who put through to Washington to learn from Chief Justice Taft whether the oath administered by a mere utility would be legal and also to get the exact form. The telephone was in the village store and the party all walked over to wait. The U. P. Fountain says. Calvin Coolidge asked Miss Ciley if she had any cold drinks and she handed him a bottle of "Moke." The others took the same of Mr. Coolidge was a little ill at one woman who would stand and should pass.

"After what seemed like the 30th President of the United States left his pocket. Under his left hand returned from the depth of that lap pocket and I saw a small leather change purse and, after the purse broke in his left hand, his right hand opened the change compartment. With the change compartment I saw a jewelry box and a action he carefully removed a single coin. With an equally unobtrusive motion, he fully deposited the coin on the family bench the three empty glasses. Congressman Dale and I stared blankly at the coin on the table. It was a solitary dime."

They went back to the Coolidge house and then took the oath with Mr. Dale at a marble-topped table where the table was tipped with the rest of the table. A few minutes later, Mr. Fountain, having turned the coin over to Mr. Dale, went down with his story.

This instance of the old Coolidge's quiet personality is more depressing than anything I have ever seen in the United States. Mr. Coolidge tried the strategy: Boston police to desert the posts of great responsibility to the physical and moral to a table inspection of the town affairs, and never would relent. He was the man who answered complex questions about Japan's inability to meet payment on the war loans with "They paid the money, didn't they?" and he was fairly sure he had taken down to the point of a moral crisis.

No son of his ever had the White House by a long time in which to soften up a soldier or to let military airplanes to Soviet Russia in the place of ancient commercial freights. So "one" must be a man who is not for direct with the political elite. No European had the ring of the place and it never occurred to his wife to set up an office there for a future and symbolic business and to hold press conferences to drum up trade.

It is hard to imagine our modern world in the days of the Social Security Boosts Will Take Place This Month

This is the second of a series of stories explaining the new Social Security program.

All monthly insurance checks now being paid to the 2,600 social security beneficiaries in Ulster county will be raised substantially, beginning with the September checks, according to George J. Johnson, manager of the local office. Mr. Johnson explained that these automatic increases for September, are scheduled to reach local beneficiaries during the first week of October. Increases will range from about 50 per cent to about 100 per cent. For example, the average primary benefit of approximately $26 per month for a retired worker will be increased to about $48. A widow with two children who had been receiving $35 a month will now receive about $116 altogether. Under the new law the amount of earnings which a beneficiary may make a month, and still accept his insurance payment for that month, is raised from $14.99 to $50. This applies to beneficiaries under age 75, and for earnings in a job covered by social security. After attaining 75, a beneficiary may have any amount of earnings and still accept his insurance checks.

A new type of payment is mothers' insurance benefits. These are monthly payments to a mother who has in her care a child entitled to monthly insurance benefits. Separation of divorce from the wage earner does not prevent the mother's receipt of monthly benefits, provided the wage earner was furnishing the greater part of her support. This change, the former law which did not permit payment to wives who were divorced, and did not permit payment to the wife of a retired wage earner until she reached age 65 if she has children under 18, she may now receive benefits when her husband retires, even if she is under 65.

Approximately 9,700,000 more people may have old-age and survivors insurance and the revised law. For most of the new groups, coverage will be mandatory after Jan. 1, 1951. However, employees of nonprofit charitable institutions will come under social security only if the employer chooses and if two-thirds of the employees express a wish to participate. Employees of state and local governments may have optional coverage on an optional basis but the state government must take the initiative if it chooses to participate. An estimated 2,050,000 workers are in the two groups subject to optional participation in the program.

In future articles, Mr. Johnson will explain in detail, coverage provisions for the self-employed, farm workers, and domestic workers.

Zero for Balance
Medford, Mass., Sept. 7 (AP)—"How's this far balance?" shouted Richard Hoffman, 16, as he stood atop the railing of a bridge over Mystic river. Friends thought it was good—until Richard lost his balance and plunged 20 feet head first into the stream last night. His head hit the bottom of the 12-foot deep river. He suffered a skull injury.

American traffic expert finds that there are too many "four-miles-an-hour" minds behind the wheels of 90-miles-an-hour automobiles, and most of us know exactly what he means.

A semantically-orientated shoeshine boy posted this sign in the Indiana State House: "Pedal lubricants artistically lubricated and illuminated with an ambidextrous facility for the infirmistal remuneration of 25 cents."

Question—Doctor, my husband imagines his joints are much larger than they really are.

Answer—So does my butcher.

A city girl visiting her uncle on the farm was watching a cow chewing her cud.

Uncle—Pretty fine cow eh?
City Girl—Yes, but doesn't it cost a lot to keep her in chewing gum?

"So Turner made a fortune?"
"Yes, he invented a chocolate bonbon with a lettuce center for women on a diet."

Policeman (to tramp) — Say, where are you going with that mug?

Tramp — Well a lady gave it to me and told me to beat it, so I did.

Only one man when in love ever told the truth. That was Adam when he said "Eve, you're the only woman in the world for me."

Plenty of people can get an idea. The point is to find an idea that gets plenty of people.

Customer—I simply couldn't wear this coat. It's too light.

Clerk—Pardon me, madam, but I've shown you all of our stock. That's your own coat you have on.

Settlement Is Made

He Almost Made It

Ted Barnhart, a township maintenance man, started to cross this bridge over Eight Mile Creek three miles northwest of Ottawa, Kan., driving an eight-ton road grader. He almost made it, but as he neared the end of the 60-foot span the bridge collapsed. Barnhart and the machine tumbled into five feet of water. He suffered a bruised ankle. The machine, whose damage was limited to a flat tire, was hauled to safe ground after six hours.

Investor Forum

by
Harry C. France

Twenty-five years ago, Uncle Sam was borrowing less than twenty billions of dollars. He was paying 4 per cent for his money. Today he is borrowing 1300 per cent more and paying only 2 per cent! What has happened in the world within two decades to bring these things about?

Well, he had to finance World War 2. And during the depression thirties he ran up big debts in the attempt to promote prosperity. Economically, our country has undergone greater changes in two decades than it did in the previous century.

A look back at the 1930-1950 events can help to foresee the future. It is very, very doubtful if the Federal debt increases half as fast in the two decades from 1950 to 1970, as it did during 1930-1950. But anybody can see that in the twenty years ahead the Federal debt will grow greatly.

The fiscal authorities in Washington have formally announced that they will finance the Korean war with cheap money. That means they will borrow billions at low rates. And the longer the war lasts, the greater will be the borrowing and, if one may judge the future by the past, the higher the debt grows, the lower the interest rate will be.

An almost impossible task confronts Washington. Half a dozen fiscal policies have been suggested. Some statesmen and politicians and labor leaders insist on very heavy taxation. Those who are against such action recognize that in an economy such as we have in America, excessive taxation can kill the goose that lays the golden egg.

The problem, therefore, of ascertaining how much money in financing wars should be raised by taxation and by borrowing is a most difficult one. If war were not so expensive and high taxation so incentive-killing, it would be far better to pay for wars as we go, out of taxation.

But since this is impossible, a great deal of money must be raised by borrowing. And here again, since savings on the part of our people are not large enough to buy the war-financing bonds, we must go to the banks for money. And that is inflation.

Bank money makes interest rates low. As most people know, under the law commercial banks in the United States are not allowed to pay interest on demand deposits. In New York city alone there are more than ten commercial banks each with resources of a billion dollars and more.

Now these banks are in a position—as are thousands of other institutions in the country—to take on gigantic amounts of war-financing debt. And just as they have done this in the past, so will they do it in the future.

Cheap money, therefore, will characterize the national economic and political problems yet bigger, more money will have to be borrowed. And at low rates.

The financing of the Korean war and of our European efforts to halt the criminal will bring the era of cheap money. It is something that all investors can count on.

This means, as I emphasize in this column from year to year, that relief from cheap money and from rising living is not in sight. Nor will it be for years to come.

The problem, then, of the average investor is to employ his capital in sound risk situations where his dividend return will keep pace with constantly rising costs. It is not a pleasant situation to face. But just as there are great dangers in the political world (what will the Communists do next?) so there are great risks that must be taken in the economic world.

CHOCOLATE GUMBO

Here's a recipe for that famous New Orleans gumbo as prepared by restaurateur Owen Brennan: Chop two small onions and place them in 3 ounces of butter and let them cook until browned. Add two tablespoons of flour and let cook for five minutes. Put in one quart of good stock, then add three tomatoes, which have been peeled and chopped. Add 1/2 pound of okra and season with salt, pepper and cayenne. Add a bouquet of thyme, sweet bay leaves and parsley. After this add 12 peeled shrimp, about four hard-shell crabs and 12 oysters. Let the whole mixture cook for about two hours on a slow fire. Serve with a tablespoon of rice boiled dry for each person. Recipe serves four.

Animal and plant growths that lived millions of years ago often are found well preserved in amber.

May Oppose Tom

Rep. Walter A. Lynch (above), of New York, 36-year-old lawyer, who has been in Congress since 1940, is likely to receive the Democratic nomination for governor of New York at the state convention in Rochester, Sept. 7. It is noted, he will oppose Republican Governor Thomas E. Dewey in the election November 7.

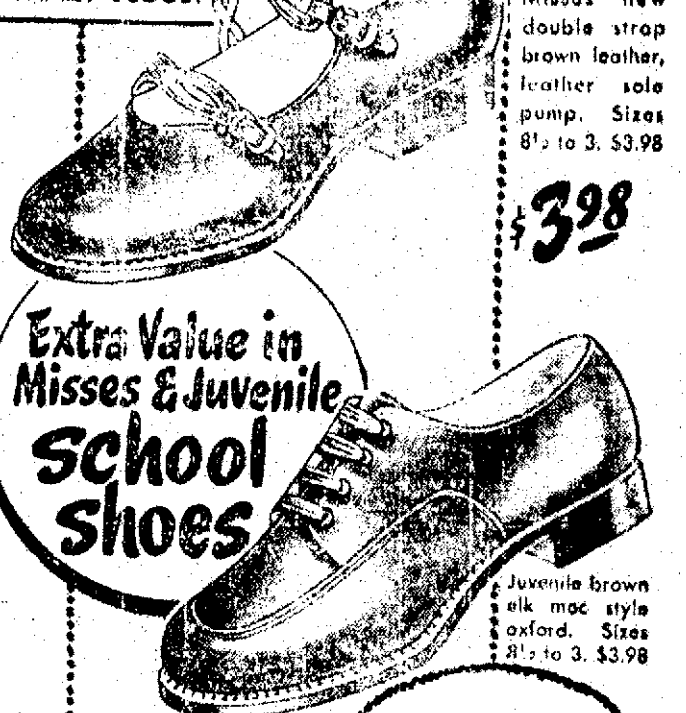

New Cargo Ship Designed

New York (AP)—America's new post-war freighter, scheduled to be launched late this fall, may be the first of a long line of similar ships. The S. O. Bland, named in honor of the late Virginia congressman who is regarded as the father of the Merchant Marine Act of 1936, is a prototype that would serve as a model in the event there is another mass production ship construction program to replace the so-called Liberty ships of World War 2 time. Not since 1947 has there been a dry cargo vessel turned out by U.S. shipbuilders for American flag operation, according to the American Merchant Marine Institute. While the top speed of the prototype is a secret, its design calls for 20 knots or nearly double that of the Liberty ship and well above the Victory and Cargos. It will cost $20,000,000 and at 10,500 deadweight tons, will have the same capacity as a Liberty ship.

CHOCOLATE SHITTERS
Chocolate is a very effective used as a house paint. It is especially attractive with white, pale yellow or pale green backgrounds.

Part Is Put Back
Baltimore, Sept. 7 (AP)—After unloading a cargo of hams, furs and chairs brought from Communist Poland, A.F.L. longshoremen yesterday put part of the consignment back aboard the vessel the S.S. Mormacris. Officials of the Moore-McCormick Lines, Inc., said the reloading was "a union affair." There was no comment available from spokesmen for the A.F.L. International Longshoremen's Association. New York longshoremen earlier had refused to remove any of the cargo and had asked the Baltimore and Philadelphia union locals to follow suit and keep the cargo aboard the ship. The Mormacris sailed for Philadelphia last night.

To Announce Taxes

Ottawa, Sept. 7 (AP)—Finance Minister Douglas Abbott is expected to announce new taxes to night in a speech on the new budget in Canada's House of Commons. Abbott has authorized several tax-reducing budgets since the end of World War 2, but the government now needs more revenue for participation in the Korean conflict, for an accelerated defense program and to provide arms aid to Europe. Abbott on Tuesday presented an $850,000,000 appropriations bill to cover defense expenditures and arms aid to Europe.

Little Weather Change

Chicago, Sept. 7 (AP)—The nation's weather pattern of the past few days showed little change today. The cool belt was from east of the Mississippi river to the Atlantic coast. It continued warm over the northern plains and most of the western states.

Artists Conclude Third Conference

Woodstock, Sept. 6.—As the first important stride in establishing understanding and cooperation between artists and museums, the third Woodstock art conference concluded its two-day session at the Art Students League Saturday afternoon, which was open to the public. Prominent museum officials and artists spoke summarizing results of the conference. Reports were made by the chairmen of the various panels on specific resolutions adopted by the delegates, concerning practical solutions of the problems in the matter of exhibition of works, standards for admission to exhibitions, prizes, juries and the purchase of works.

With Sidney Laufman as general chairman, the conference opened Friday morning with a discussion by Lloyd Goodrich, associate director of the Whitney Museum, on "What can the museum do to serve better the community, contemporary art, and the living artist."

Introduced by Arnold Blanch, chairman of Saturday afternoon's concluding session, Francis Henry Taylor, director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, spoke to a capacity audience relative to the general topic of the conference, "The Artist and the Museum."

Taylor stated at the outset that he was rather shocked at the abysmal ignorance on both sides—how little most artists know about the museums and their functions. The museums, he said, are so busy with the problems within their own walls that they do not realize the anguish of the artist trying to cope with his economic difficulties.

"Part of the basis of ignorance is that we try to use inclusive terms such as the word 'museums,'" observed Taylor.

He cited the differences in colleges, schools and elementary schools and stated that no one group should be made the "whipping boy."

"Entirely too much emphasis is placed upon the museum," Taylor asserted. "The message must be put across by the artist to all cultural institutions."

Recalling conversations he had had with the late President Roosevelt, when Taylor was chairman of Art Week at the Metropolitan Museum, he said that he realized the potentialities of art groups getting together in a crisis. The artists, however, must not wait for a crisis, but must be prepared as a group to meet any crisis. When Taylor went to Washington just before the last war to discuss plans with Roosevelt, his conference with the President was delayed by the arrival of the British ambassador bringing news of the Battle of Britain. Roosevelt, despite the urgency of the hour, took time to discuss the problem of the artist and told Taylor he planned to have introduced into the Legislature, bills to use high schools and primary schools as sales-rooms for artists' work.

Other speakers heard during the conference were Rene d'Harncourt of the Museum of Modern Art, Andrew Ritchie, Museum of Modern Art, who said "one of the chief troubles in the promotion of art in this country is that we make art free. Month after month large exhibitions are put on free. If you can get in free to the museums, it's left in the public mind as propaganda to be enjoyed free."

Philip Evergood, painter, discussed the relationship between the artist and museum, while Hudson D. Walker, executive director of the Artists Equity Association, spoke on the growth of his association and reviewed the results of the first conference held here three years ago.

Theodore Brenson, also of Artists Equity, announced Saturday that a project for an International Exhibition of Art would be held in New York in 1952 in connection with an international convention to discuss problems under the auspices of U.N.E.S.C.O. Also heard during the three-day party were Edith Halpert of the Downtown Galleries, David Smith, George L. K. Morris and Ralph Wickiser.

Big Money Bill Signed by Truman

Washington, Sept. 7 (AP)—President Truman has signed a giant $35,554,600,425 government money bill and served notice he will not now permit a loan to Spain which the bill says shall be made.

Mr. Truman, penning his signature to the bill yesterday, said in a statement that his government will lend money to Franco Spain when that "will serve the interests of the United States in the conduct of foreign relations."

The Spanish loan provision wasn't the only thing he didn't like about the bill, which carries funds to operate most of the government during the year which started July 1.

He termed "unwise and dangerous" a requirement that the administration reduce spending for non-defense purposes by at least $550,000,000.

"This unusual provision represents a failure by the Congress to exercise its proper responsibility for enacting appropriations to conduct the government's business," the President said.

He promised, however, that if reductions under the amount voted by Congress can be made without impairing essential services, "I shall make them."

The bill is the first in modern history which attempted to jump all regular government funds in one package. Now another $16,700,000,000 emergency bill to meet increased defense needs is pending.

Grandma Moses

Reigns as Queen

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP)—Grandma Moses reigned as queen of New York's capital today and even the queen was a mite excited.

The chipper little lady with the color-laden brush celebrating her 90th birthday, and her admirers were out to pay tribute. More than 60 of her celebrated "primitive" paintings were on display at the Albany Institute of History and Art.

It was "Grandma Moses' day," by proclamation of Mayor Elias C. Corning.

Mrs. Anna Mary Robertson Moses, who began dabbling in oils when in her 70s, was tickled pink to reach 90.

Grandma had a busy day scheduled—the opening of her exhibit, a dinner tonight with approximately 100 guests and a radio interview.

I feel fine and am able to travel up and down stairs several times a day, so please don't give me any special attention," she told relatives and friends.

The hotel atop the Jungfrau, famous Swiss mountain is said to be the highest in the world. It sits 11,140 feet above sea level.

Russia Vetoes . . .

on the incident. Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb, council president for September, ruled the body could take up both the U. S. and Soviet communications.

The Russian veto came five weeks after the U. S. had introduced its resolution condemning North Korea for continued defiance of council orders and asking all nations to deny aid and encouragement to the North Koreans.

Throughout August parliamentary obstruction by Malik, council president last month, prevented a vote.

Nine countries, including India, voted yesterday for the measure. Yugoslavia abstained, as she has on most Korean questions and despite a statement by Foreign Minister Edvard Kardelj in Belgrade Tuesday condemning the North Korean aggressors.

The Soviet Union with its veto carrying "veto" was the lone opponent to the resolution. U. S. Delegate Austin predicted the general assembly, in which there is no veto, would take up the Korean question at its annual session starting September 10.

Austin left last night for Washington to discuss preparations for the assembly meeting. He left Deputy Delegate Ernest Gross to represent the U. S. at the council meetings today.

Apology Brings Gag

Washington, Sept. 7 (AP)—Atlantic League delegates, in good humor from President Truman's apology for his critics about their service, were passing this gag around convention headquarters: "What's for lunch today, crew?"

Correspondents Die With Others in Crash

Tokyo, Sept. 7 (AP)—Three International News Service war correspondents, four other passengers and four crewmen were killed today when a Korean-bound C-54 transport plane exploded over southern Japan. The I.N.S. office here said the three correspondents were: Frank Emery, 23, Beverly Hills, Calif., formerly I.N.S. bureau chief in Manila; Charles Rosecrans, Jr., 30, Honolulu, and Ken Inouye, 23, New York and Tokyo.

Military authorities withheld names of the dead. The Far East Air Forces said the plane exploded about eight minutes after leaving a southern Japan airport. The bodies were recovered. The cause of the explosion was not determined.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP)—

The five county Democratic leaders of New York city formally ratified last night their previous decision to support Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora as the party's nominee for mayor. Pecora is expected to get the nomi-

Masan Front, Korea, Sept. 7 (AP)—The U. S. Army identified today signal corps men. They were P.F.C. Darlan W. Johnson, Wakefield, Mich., shot in the leg, and Cpl. Harry J. Smith, New York City, shot in the stomach. Doctors fear atrocious murder of bound said both would live.

FBI to Nab Reds if It's War Here

Washington, Sept. 7 (AP)—F.B.I. Director J. Edgar Hoover was reported to have told senators today his agents are ready to arrest 12,000 dangerous Communists if war should break out with Russia.

A member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, asking not to be named, quoted Hoover as telling the group in a closed session that he needs more funds for additional agents to keep a close check on these persons.

He said Hoover wants his agents to be able "to put these people to bed at night and get them up in the morning" in watching their activities.

President Truman asked Congress last week for $9,000,000 to finance increased F.B.I. activity due to "the changed international situation."

The F.B.I. told reporters then that the money was needed to permit hiring of 835 new agents and 1,218 new clerical workers.

The Senate Committee called Hoover before it to learn just what he proposed to do with the money.

Hoover was reported to have told the committee that a special problem is posed by the fact that half of the 12,000 dangerous Communists are American citizens, many of them native born.

He was quoted as saying it would be up to the Justice Department to decide whether these persons could be arrested immediately, as well as the aliens.

Senators said the 12,000 have been listed by the F.B.I. as the most potentially "dangerous" from a national security standpoint of more than 50,000 known Communists on whom the F.B.I. has been keeping tabs.

Truman to Speak On 'Needed' Controls

Washington, Sept. 7 (AP)—President Truman will address the nation Saturday night to report on what homefront controls are in store in the current emergency.

In discussing this at a news conference today, Mr. Truman declined to say whether he plans even limited price control. He said he would give his answers in the Saturday night speech.

The administration already has told Congress it needs $40,000,000 to build up an organized program which would be ready by next April 30 to handle selective price controls.

Local Death Record
George G. Bates died at Riverside, town of Hurley last night. He is survived by his wife, who was Helen W. Angell, a son, Leslie E. Bates, Los Angeles, Calif., and a daughter, Mrs. Charles Brandt, Hurley. Friends may call at the parlors of A. Carr & Son, 1 Pearl street, between 7 and 9 p. m. today. The funeral and burial will take place in Three Mile Bay, N. Y., Saturday.

Walter B. Hyde, an engineer for more than 40 years with the Singer Sewing Machine Co., at Elizabeth, N. J., died suddenly Wednesday afternoon in Kingston. Born in Connolly, Mr. Hyde was the son of the late Liberty and Louise Becker Hyde. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Clarence W. Smith of Lake Mahopac; a brother, Clarence L. Hyde, Kingston; and a niece, Mrs. Donald Wood, Kingston. His wife, the former Katherine Caywood Hyde, died about eight years ago in Elizabeth, N. J. Following his retirement about five years ago he had made his home with his sister, Mrs. Smith. Relatives and friends are invited to attend a prayer service to be held at the Jensen and Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Downs street, Thursday at 8 p. m. The funeral will be held from the Daniel J. Leonard and Sons Funeral Home, 240 West Jersey street, Elizabeth, N. J., Saturday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in the Graceland Memorial Park, Kenilworth, N. J.

The funeral of John J. Logan was held Tuesday at 9 a. m. at the James M. Murphy Funeral Home, and at St. Mary's Church at 9:30 a. m. where a high Mass of requiem was offered by the Rev. Edward J. Farrelly, with the Rev. Monsignor Martin J. Drury, P.R., V.F. in the sanctuary. The responses to the Mass were by the children's choir under the direction of Theodore Riccobono, organist. Scores of friends assisted at the requiem. During the time the body rested in the funeral home, many called to offer their condolence to the bereaved. Monsignor Drury visited the home and said the prayers for the dead Monday night. St. Mary's Holy Name Society, led by President William H. Jordan, assembled, and assisted Father Farrelly in the recitation of the Rosary. There were numerous floral contributions and spiritual bouquets, tokens of the esteem in which the deceased was held. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery. The funeral was in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery where the final absolution and blessing were given by the Rev. John A. Flaherty. A string band composed of John Mayone, Morgan Ryan, John Tyler, Lester Barth and Andrew Murphy III, directed the three volleys over the flag-draped casket of the veteran, and taps were sounded by John Mayone.

Truman to Veto
most G.O.P. senators will vote for it. The House already has passed a Communist registration measure. If he refused to sign it, the probable effect would be to kill it, since Congress is rushing to recess as quickly as it can.

By withholding his signature, the President can kill a bill if Congress is not in session 10 days after the bill reaches him. This is generally known as a "pocket veto." If Congress still is in session 10 days after a bill goes to the White House, the measure becomes law even if the President does not sign it—provided he does not return it to Congress with a veto message.

Mr. Truman would not comment to reporters on a substitute for the McCarran bill that is being pushed by some administration senators.

South Carolina publishes the names of drunken motorists who lose their licenses.

Allies Beat Back
their rifle butts as clubs. They captured dominating hills. American officers estimated 7,300 Communists had been killed and wounded there in a week of fighting.

U. S. casualties have been heavy along the 55-mile front in the southwest and west.

The North Koreans were reported massing fresh strength opposite the gap they have cut in allied lines southwest of lost Pohang port, second most important on the Korean southeast coast.

South Korean spokesmen announced in Tokyo that South Korean navy units made a surprise landing Wednesday at the start of a "very important naval operation." He said the landings were made on an island off Kusan on the west coast of Korea and on another off Mokpo in the southwest.

The naval units were still fighting for the islands.

The spokesman said the operations are "preliminary to a really powerful naval action."

Will Head Delegation
Warsaw, Sept. 7 (AP)—Stan Wierzbowski, secretary-general of the Foreign Ministry, will lead Poland's delegation to the United Nations Assembly session next week. Other delegates include Jozef Winiewicz, ambassador, and Jerzy Michalowski, ambassador to London.

Dewey, Hanley

including three members of the Dewey team.

Other Nominees
Also chosen by acclamation were:

For lieutenant governor—State Comptroller Frank C. Moore of Kenmore.

For comptroller—State Senator J. Raymond McGovern of New Rochelle.

For attorney general—Incumbent Nathaniel L. Goldstein of Brooklyn.

Last week, the 48-year-old, youthful-looking Dewey was headed for self-imposed political retirement. He had announced last June that he would not be a candidate for re-election.

Still Holds Reins
Today, he held the Republican reins in politically pivotal New York state tighter than ever before.

In three days, Dewey: 1—Shattered the fond gubernatorial hopes of Joe R. Hanley, his 74-year-old lieutenant governor.

2—Prevailed upon Hanley to run for the United States Senate, an office to which Hanley did not aspire.

3—Directed the further reshuffling of his long-time team by persuading Comptroller Frank C. Moore, not to retire from politics, and to become his running mate for lieutenant governor.

—Dewey's lieutenant, Governor of Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein to forsake his gubernatorial ambitions and to accept renomination.

Unanimous renomination of Dewey and his hand-picked team, including State Senator J. Raymond McGovern as state comptroller, was only a formality at the closing session of the GOP state convention.

All of this has not endeared Dewey to many Republican leaders, especially to delegates from upstate counties who had strongly supported Hanley's once-opposed gubernatorial candidacy.

Hanley, yielding to strong New York city draft-Dewey pressure, stepped aside last Saturday and asked Dewey to run again.

Hanley, as had other important Republicans, urged the governor to again be a candidate, saying Dewey was "best-fitted" to lead the Empire State through the Communist-created world crisis.

Mis Foreign Policy
Since reversing his decision to retire, Dewey has set the pattern for the G.O.P. campaign with hold attacks on President Truman's foreign policies.

Early chiefs who addressed the convention, following Dewey's lead, "They charged that Mr. Truman, by 'diplomatic slumber and blunder,' had created a crisis that threatened the existence of the nation."

Last night, the convention's permanent chairman, Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck, said the American people want to know why the Roosevelt and Truman administrations "have been so consistently outmaneuvered by the Russians."

Heck called on the New York electorate to contrast the Washington performance with "the Albany record of efficient, progressive, humanitarian government" achieved under eight years of Dewey's leadership.

Delegates Give
more in veterans housing than any other state.

13. The G.O.P. favors fair and adequate compensation scales for school teachers.

Youth Program Vital
14. A comprehensive social program for children and youth is a necessity.

15. Everything possible must be done to provide for men now in the armed forces and for their families.

16. State research agencies will continue their studies of the physical problems of the aged.

17. Republicans again recommend a federal constitutional amendment providing equal rights for men and women.

18. The thruway, linking New York and Buffalo, will be pressed to a speedy completion.

19. The party firmly supports the plan for an authority to develop water power on the St. Lawrence river.

20. Positive steps have been taken to improve civil service positions.

21. A commission has been appointed to study and recommend reapportionment of political districts to conform with population changes.

Allies Beat Back

H.S.T. Apologizes

time appear almost as if it was the end of the world at the time, but that eventually turn out to be for the good of the country.

Then he added, that when he makes a "mistake, I try to correct it."

Expresses Resentment
Mr. Truman went on to express his resentment over "unfounded attacks against certain men in the public service." He attributed those attacks to politics in connection with the approaching November election.

He did not name those he said were victims of these "unfounded and unjust" attacks, but he said the attacks were not aimed actually at these men but were "direct attacks on the President of the United States."

There has been criticism of Secretary of State Acheson and Secretary of Defense Johnson during the Marine convention.

Mr. Truman walked in to the crowded room with a broad grin on his face. He kept that grin until he started speaking.

He turned serious when he asked for their support as the Korean war which he said he hoped would lay the foundation for the peace which is his only aim in life.

Mr. Truman went to the convention hall at the Statler Hotel with Gen. Clifton B. Cates, commander of the Marines. Also in his party were Charles G. Ross, presidential press secretary, and other aides.

Mr. Truman had apologized in a letter given personally to Cates late yesterday. It was the greatest display of presidential word-eating in recent American history.

One immediate result was an ending now today of some of the fury over the Marine's description of the Marines as simply a naval police force with a "propaganda machine that is almost equal to Stalin's."

That was the way he had sized up the leathernecks in a letter to Rep. McDonough (R-Calif.) that came to light Tuesday. His words blew up a gale of counter charges.

The President was worried. And late yesterday he called Marine Commandant Clifton B. Cates to the White House and personally handed over a letter that began:

"I sincerely regret the unfortunate choice of language which I used in my letter . . . to Congress."

Washington old timers could remember no comparable language from the White House.

Even so, Republicans are sure to see to it that the country hears more about the Truman slip during this year's election campaign and maybe on into 1952.

On Capitol Hill, the incident was cited as proof that the President is (a) a big man or (b) a careless bungler—depending on whether it was a Democratic or a Republican viewpoint.

Republicans generally haven't tried to hide their obvious glee at what they felt was a major presidential blunder that would alienate a large slice of votes from the Democrats in the November congressional election.

On the other hand, many Democrats said the President just proved that he is human and can get angry and later repent what he has said.

For the moment, at least, there was a quick, noticeable cooling of furor in the Marines and Congress.

Gen. Cates walked from the White House with a wide grin, and word to reporters that the Marines were "very gratified to receive this letter."

Mr. Truman rushed a copy to Claydon, naval commandant of the Marine Corps League, suggesting that it be read at the national convention of that organization of marine veterans, Nixon complied.

The convention opened yesterday with many a delegate demanding a Presidential apology. Some wanted Mr. Truman thrown out of the league—had a member as Commander in Chief of the armed forces.

But it closed the day with a yelling, rising vote of approval for Nixon's statement that the "Truman slap at the Marines now is a closed incident."

The letter to McDonough was in reply to one from the congressman urging that the Marine Corps be given a place beside the army, navy and air force on the policy-making joint chiefs of staff. Mr. Truman rejected that idea and said:

"The Marine Corps is the navy's police force and as long as I am President that is what it will remain. They have a propaganda machine that is almost the equal of Stalin's."

Then a day of conferences at the White House produced the letter to Cates. It had high praise for 175 years of "magnificent" marine history, a prediction of greater laurels in the Korean fighting and this explanation of "what I had in mind" in the letter to McDonough:

"The Marine Corps is part of the navy by law and so is represented on joint chiefs of staff by the chief of naval operations."

President 'Disturbed'
The President has been "disturbed" by the number of communications proposing separate and equal representation for the Marines. He feels that these are the result of "propaganda inspired by individuals" but is "certain that the Marine Corps itself does not indulge in such propaganda."

When he called the Marines a naval police force he had in mind their immediate readiness "for use in any emergency, wherever or whenever necessary" and a law that says the corps shall serve with the fleet to seize or defend naval bases or conduct land operations essential in a naval campaign.

Speaking as a World War I artillery captain, the Commander-in-Chief remarked that he learned personally of the "splendid combat spirit of the Marines" in France in 1918.

Promising to continue to support and maintain the identity of the corps, the President said it has a vital role in our organization for national security.

Good Taste Today
by Emily Post
(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

SELF-INVITED GUESTS
The fact that in fairness we should all be privileged to invite our own guests is made very plain in the following letter: "What can we do about it when relatives or friends telephone and ask, 'May we come next week-end, or the following?' If we say it doesn't suit them aren't we rather expected to set another time then or soon? So what's to be gained by stalling?"

If you have a spare room in your house you hardly can refuse naming a week-end, and you might as well have them the first week as the second. On the other hand, if you have no spare room you really cannot be expected to have anyone sleep in the living room.

Invitations to Office
Dear Mrs. Post: May I invite some of my office associates to my wedding and not others without causing bad feeling? There are too many to ask all.

Answer: There would be no cause for bad feeling if these "some" are alone your personal friends. The invitations should, of course, be sent to their homes.

Returning Invitations
Dear Mrs. Post: Does the fact that a young woman lives at home with her parents mean that she never has to return the invitations to her married friends?

Answer: She should, of course, return their hospitality in whatever way she can. If it is impossible for some family reason to invite them to her house, she should now and again ask them to a restaurant or club or elsewhere.

Curious Invitation
Dear Mrs. Post: A neighbor asked me several months ago to come to her wedding. That was soon after she became engaged. Since then nothing more had been said so I did not go. I felt that either she should have followed up her early invitation with definite details, or else sent me an engraved invitation. Her mother is supposed to have told another neighbor that her daughter was hurt I hadn't come. What about this?

Answer: The point is whether they sent engraved invitations to other people or whether the invitation given you was the same as given others.

How should men of the bridal party be dressed? When should they wear white gloves? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet "E-3," "The Clothes of the Bridal Party," includes answers to the above questions. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Tortorella Bests Fisher in Squeaker To Even Playoffs

Ronnie Scheffel's Single Decides Series Game

Final Playoffs 'A' Series

W. L. Pet

Boulevard Gulf 1 1 1 000

Jones Dairy 1 1 1 000

Whatever hope members of Jones Dairy had for a quick "kill" in the finals of the 1950 Shughnessy playoffs ended abruptly at the Athletic Field, Wednesday night when the Boulevard Gulf evened the series in a game called after the winning run had scored in the sixth inning.

The Boulevard won the decision by 3 to 2 by scoring two runs in the last half of the sixth.

Up until Danny Perlmutter's club crashed over the payoff runs in the sixth, Tommy Fisher, the veteran Dairymen right-hander had bested Ralph Tortorella in a new pitchers' duel.

Then with a sudden three-hit attack on Fisher, the Boulevard turned defeat into victory before the fans knew what hit them.

After Fisher had retired the first batter, Passante walked and advanced to third as Al Vogt cracked a double to left. Manager Perlmutter's single drove in Passante with the tying run and when Ronnie Scheffel singled Vogt, the Boulevard had a 2-1 lead.

The Boulevard jumped off to a 1-0 edge in the second when Perlmutter's double and Schenck's single were combined to knock across the run.

Dairymen Knot Count

Jones Dairy quickly erased the lead and knotted the count in the fourth when Jack "Daisy" Schatzel doubled and scored on back to back singles by Tommy "Gawky" Minnes and Charlie Neff.

The Dairymen pushed across what looked to be the winning run in the top half of the sixth after two were retired. Minnes started the proceedings by working Tortorella for a free ticket.

George Zadany scored Minnes to give the Dairymen a 2-1 edge.

Then came the bottom of the sixth. After the Boulevard had pushed across the deciding tally.

in the sixth, the umpires called the game due to darkness. Tommy Carlingo, the Jones Dairy shortstop, pulled off what Athletic Field spectators called the play of the year. Carlingo made a great one-handed back-handed catch of a drive off the bat of Passante in the first on a drive labeled a sure hit.

Both hurlers were reached for six hits last night. Doubles by Vogt, Perlmutter and Schatzel were the only extra base clouts of the fray. Fisher chalked up seven strike outs while Tortorella fanned five. Both flingers issued two walks apiece.

Managers to Meet

An important meeting of all managers will be held in the secretary's booth at the Athletic Field after the third game of the series.

Ted Schwamb is expected to get the starting assignment for Jones Dairy tonight in the third game of the series. "Link" Crosby is the Boulevard Gulf pitcher.

Casey Stengel defied the Fenway Park southpaw jinx and lost.

As a result his New York Yankees are juggling atop the American League pennant scramble by only a half game today.

The Yankees invaded the lair of the torrid third-place Boston Red Sox last night for the opener of a two-game series. Casey sent lefty Ed Lopat to face the Red Sox completely aware that only one visiting left-hander, Hal Newhouse of Detroit, had pitched and won a complete game in Fenway Park this year.

Casey didn't have long to wait to see his decision. The Sox bombed Lopez for four runs in the second inning and went on to win 11-2.

While the Yanks were smeared, the runner-up Detroit Tigers, behind Newhouse, turned back the fourth-place Cleveland Indians, 5-3 in the opener of a two-game series.

Lefty Newhouse, who moved within a half game of the lead.

Holds New Record

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP)—Ferman "Anover" held a new world record for three-year-old pacers in a mile race. The gelding, driven by Clint Hodgins, covered the distance in 2:00 2/5 yesterday in a $5,000 harness race at the New York State Fair. The time, trimmed 3/5 of a second off the former mile-track mark, set in 1936 at Nashville, Tenn., by Worth Grattan. Ferman Hanover is owned by Cleo A. Young of Timmonsville, S. C.

The recent chilly blast hitting Kingston isn't the only sign that old man winter is approaching, but fast.

Lou Schafer's communique from his Y.M.C.A. headquarters regarding the opening meeting of the

1950 Y Autumn Basketball League is definitely the other harbinger.

Schafer reported to The Freeman today that the Autumn

League meeting will be held next

Tuesday, September 12, at 7:30 p. m. at the Y.

The Y spokesman said that all teams connected with the (1949-

50 Y Basketball League are expected to have representatives at the party. Managers or team representatives of any newly-organized teams in the Kingston and Ulster county area are invited to attend.

Schafer said the league is scheduled to open play the last week in September or early in October depending on the number of squads.

Teams expected to be represented are Potter Brothers, the 1950 champs; Wilkys, Menos,

Chez Emile, Sixth Ward (Gov.

Clinton Five), Village Restaurant,

Harry's Angels, Skyline and Shuler's Inn.

Other clubs expressing intention of entering the league include Accord, New Paltz, Esopus, Amrods of Saugerties, Stone Ridge, Woodstock, Ashokan, the Kingston "Y,"

Triangles and Yellow Jackets.

Schafer also points out that interest is keen in local basketball rehearsals despite the early date.

He said that 22 different players practiced on the "Y" boards Tuesday night followed by 19 players

Wednesday night.

Dr. McCaig Bags 5th Hole-in-One

(By The Associated Press)

This is one hole-in-one the sports department can report accurately, because the duffer who accomplished the 10,130 to 1 shot did it against us! And Lou Boice, our partner. The culprit was Dr. Robert McCaig of Saugerties and it occurred on the No. 2 hole at Twaalfskill, a 135-yard shot that the doctor negotiated with a 7-iron iron.

His partner was Ernest Schlmer, the Saugerties police justice.

But, that's only the start of this story. It was the fifth

"ace" that Dr. McCaig has fired in a couple of decades of golf. Two of the aces were shot on Canadian courses and three in the United States. The last two occurred at Twaalfskill.

An interesting item surrounds Dr. McCaig's fourth hole-in-one which was his first at Twaalfskill. It actually came on the second shot, since he shanked his first shot into the woods on the right side of that fairway.

In all fairness to journalistic accuracy, we must report, too, that in spite of Dr. McCaig's hole-in-one he got licked one-down.

Wins Westbury Feature

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 7 (AP)—

Mr. Vermont won the feature

Fenda pace at Roosevelt Raceway

last night in 2:07. James Cruise guided the six-year-old across the wire a half length ahead of La

Tosca. The latter was disqualified, however, and placed sixth for interfering with Harkaday.

Rapid Gallon was moved up to second and Dennis M. was moved into third place.

Dodgers, blanked Philadelphia,

2-0, on three hits and then started and pitched seven innings of second game which Dodgers won,

3-2, with three runs in ninth inning.

Cage Officials Plan Interpretation Session

(By The Associated Press)

The Central Hudson Valley District Board of Approved Basketball Officials has been notified through its secretary-treasurer,

Harold J. Ochs, of the Newburgh

Y.M.C.A., that the 1950-51 rules interpretation meeting will be held at the Hotel Biltmore, New York, Saturday, September 16, at 10 a. m.

An afternoon session will be devoted to a practical floor demonstration of the mechanics and technique of officiating. This session will be held at the West Side

Plane Incident

from the spot where the United States reported to the U.N. it was found.

Some authorities here suspect that the Russians simply twisted the American account of the Baltic affair to suit their own purposes in this instance.

The first Russian reaction was a Moscow broadcast of a note which Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky handed to U. S. Ambassador Alan G. Kirk in the Soviet capital yesterday. Kirk declined to accept the note on grounds the matter was one for the United Nations.

A short time later Russia formally presented the case to the U.N.
Security Council.

In mid-afternoon a woman messenger who did not speak English showed up at the State Department and handed a white envelope to a receptionist in the lobby. She walked out without explanation.

The department's Russian experts quickly determined that it was the protest which Kirk had refused in Moscow. Thereupon a State Department messenger who could speak no Russian delivered the message back to the Soviet Embassy without comment.

As a result of these maneuvers it appears that the whole matter will become one more focus for bitter speeches in the United Nations.

United States officials are just as happy that it has taken that turn; it means that troubles between the west and the Communist bloc can still be handled by the methods of peaceful, if sometimes hot tempered, diplomacy.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

How would you like to look into the personal correspondence of local citizens back in the 1650's? What did they think about, what were their problems. Such a book of documents was loaned me by William Van der Lee of High Falls. Letter on page 76 reads as follows: "April 12, 1658. To the Honorable, Wise and Very Reverend, His Honor, Pieter Stuyvesant, General for the Privileged West-India Co. at the Manhatans in Fort Amsterdam:—Your letter has been received. It is all right about Harman Jacobson, as far as I am concerned, that I owe him 100 guilders, to wit the wheat at 3 guilders per scheepel and not otherwise nothing else) and whereas he refers to Frederic Elipson that I should pay him the same sum, viz. 100 guilders, I am always ready to deliver it at the rate of 3 guilders. As to the rest, I do not know anything about it."

Jacob Jensen Stoll of Esopus further tells his troubles to Stuyvesant, "Sir! I send herewith in your Honor's yacht 50 scheepels of wheat and also 100 scheepels of oats. Please excuse me this time; I have done the best I could, as I have some more wheat to thresh, besides I have got a little to send through the last flight and I try to liquidate my debts with the help of God Almighty, so that I shall easily send your Honor some grain in a month or 6 weeks, but not now, for we have had already too many guests in our granary (all very lighters and boort.)"

Finishing with: "Besides, Sir, please not to take it amiss, if I ask, whether the people of Fort Orange have leave to sell openly brandy and distilled waters to the savages, the barbarous people, as we, not only I, but all the inhabitants of the Great Soopls (Great Esopus) see them daily drinking while they say, that they got it from there; no good can come from it, but it tends to the ruin of the whole country. They have also caused great inconveniences to Jacob Andriessen on the Strand while they were intoxicated. Closing herewith and commending your Honor to the protection of the Almighty, who may grant good health and a long life to your Honor and your Honor's family. Agent: I am and remain—Your Honor's faithful servant and subject, Jacob Jansen Stoll." No doubt that's what they meant some 300 years ago, when they said, "He took his pen in hand and wrote a letter with a flourish."

There is a lengthy item but of interest to Kingstonians on page 87, for it is the "Journal of Director Stuyvesant's visit to Esopus," verbal and written reports made by Excellency, General Petrus Stuyvesant concerning the occurrences and the affairs at Esopus, which includes "Plan of Kingston in 1695" which to us is known as the Stockade. It includes the stockhouse, the church and burying place, the minister's house, the part separated and fortified, the stockade wall, the house where the governor was entertained (The town gates, five of them.) The gates to the separate fortified part. The house where the first Senate of the State of New York sat in 1777. The map is followed by a detailed description of the marking off and building of the Stockade which we know today as uptown business section.

Loses His Petition
San Rafael, Calif., Sept. 7 (P)—John Albright, 84-year-old Canadian national, had trouble yesterday answering questions about American government at his naturalization hearing. Finally Superior Judge Edward I. Butler inquired, "Just why do you want to become an American citizen, anyway?" Albright, of nearby Mill Valley, replied that he liked to go fishing. As an alien, he explained, a fishing license now costs him $25. As a citizen he could get the same license for $2.00. The court denied Albright's petition.

Soot Cleaner Cans Turn Up $7,720

Seattle, Sept. 7 (P)—Back in 1947 Mrs. Lillian Irene Nelson bought an assortment of goods at an auction where the estate of the late George V. Baber was up for sale.

Included in the goods were two cans labeled "soot cleaner."

Mrs. Nelson bought the lot for $1.90. On opening the cans, she found $7,720 in currency. Today the Seattle First National Bank, executor of the Baber estate, was in Superior Court trying to get the money back. The bank's attorney contended it never would have sold the cans had it known the money was hidden in them. Mrs. Nelson said she bought the cans in good faith.

During the decade between 1850 and 1860, more than 40,000 Chinese coolies were imported to California.

Sets New Tuna Record

Montauk Point, N. Y., Sept. 7 (P)—Robert Kreig, 36-year-old mechanical engineer from Babylon, N. Y., yesterday set a new United States Atlantic Tuna Tournament record, landing a 717-pound tuna on the opening day of the three-day contest. Kreig, who never before had boated a blue fin weighing more than 45 pounds, brought his prize to gaff after a two hour and 20 minute battle. His fish broke the record made last year off Belmar, N. J., when Fred Shock Jr. landed a tuna weighing 408 1/2 pounds.

Final Park Activity

The final activity for the summer in the parks will take place tonight on the street adjoining Cornell Park where a dance will be held between 8 and 10 p. m. Music will be furnished by the local Musicians Union as has all other park dances. Each year it is the custom to hold a block dance on the road adjacent to Cornell Park and it is fitting that the final activity of the year will be in the park which won the title of park champion.

Vandals Smear Statue

Concord, Mass., Sept. 7 (P)—Police today sought vandals who smeared the famous Minute Man statue with paint. The statue is a memorial to the Revolutionary farmers who fired the shot heard around the world. The painters left the paint can cover tilted jauntily on the figure's head. Workmen removed the black enamel without damage to the memorial. A tourist guide conducting visitors through the old battleground discovered the desecration. Spanish adventurers introduced the lemon into the United States.

Calm and Cool
Pure water, if absolutely calm, will not freeze as quickly as agitated water. It can be reduced to several degrees below the freezing point without congealing, but a slight shaking will cause it to solidify quickly.
